Old Roads, New Lake Boundaries, and the Challenges of Historical Evidence

The Douglas Lake Cattle Company v. Nicola Valley Fish and Game Club case drew international attention to the tangled interplay between private land rights and public rights to recreate.

Evan Cooke led the legal team that acted for the successful Douglas Lake Ranch. He will present on the legal issues and evidence that took a local dispute to the Supreme Court of Canada, and identify lessons learned along the way for government and landowners. Please join us for cocktails and dinner conversation.

Cost: $45 members/$55 non-members. Capacity is limited, register early.

This course is approved for 1.0 hrs of CPD accreditation with the Law Society of British Columbia (TBC) and the AIC.
